A ROUND OF TALK.

Abstractly

He preached he should be satisfied with little here below. That wealth we should not strive to gain. 'Twas all an empty show. He said the man who rovers Had had cause to be glad. 'Twas glorious to be poor! (He Two million dollars had)

Most earnestly he lectured on The plain and simple life. He by there was in doing right. And keeping out of strife; He said the love of fellow-man Was all that was worth while. All else was naught! (But daily he Kept adding to his pile)

He taught in language eloquent The sin there was in greed, The folly of possessing more. 'Twas what would meet our need: To be content with what you have. 'Twas grand to hear him preach, And not to seek for more! (But he Grabbed everything in reach)

Valley Hill.

Owing to the fact that your correspondent was absent when he arrived for the make-up of our letter, we failed to communicate last week, however, we observe that our vacancy was well filled and of course our absence not marked, yet we shall endeavor to fill our space hence forth.

The fine weather during the past week enabled the farmers to do a great deal of necessary work that will tend to add greatly to the farm progress in the Spring.

We are informed that Mr. Marion Strange, of Mooreville, will fill the vacancy of Mr. Piles as our smith. We regret to lose Mr. Piles, yet welcome Mr. Strange, who is an unexcelled workman.

Mrs. J. L. Moran visited her sister, Mrs. T. D. D. Baker, of near Williamsburg, Thursday night and Friday.

Robert and Herbert Moran, accompanied by their little sister, Margaret, attended a birthday party given by their cousin, Dee Edgerdon, at his home near Hinsons last Thursday night.

Mr. Billie Hardin, of Polin, was in our midst Friday.

A wedding typhoon seems to have made a strike in this county recently. Who will be next?

Mrs. T. B. Baker and charming daughter, of Williamsburg, were in our midst last week.

Mr. Jas. Gues, of Chicago, visited relatives in this section last week.

Miss Bessie Roberts, of Springfield, is the charming guest of Miss Pearl Goutley.

Mr. Wilford Drys and family, of Lebanon, visited relatives Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Thos. Reed accompanied by Miss Grace Sheehan, visited relatives near Maud Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Harry Derringer and wife have removed from this place to the home of the latter parents at Midway, where they will reside the ensuing year.

A coal famine is just about as bad as having no wood.

Mr. J. T. Haydon is visiting his daughter, Mrs. T. C. Tatum, this week.

Mr. Ham Piles is repairing the shop at Mooreville to which place he will soon remove. Mr. Piles is a good smith and the citizens should be well pleased at securing his services.

Mr. H. T. Virgin, the local butcher from Maul was in our midst Saturday. He is just recovering an injury received in a friendly row when a friend playfully yet harshly, "punched" him one, in the side fracturing a rib.

Our village was blessed with the presence of another 10c show recently, in which the spectators were carried through the vivid scenes of the late wars, and landed safely at home the looser.

There is a time in each year. That we all love so dear. Although we should not wish. However, if he is at all. It must be in the fall. When we can have "pumpkin pie."

To Settle Old Claim.

Judge George DuRelle, of Louisville, was here the first of this week taking depositions in the case of the First Presbyterian church against the United States Government. Judge DuRelle reported to the government that the church's interests were looked after by Attorney Henry S. McElroy.

The claim is for $8100 damages done to the building during civil war by the Union army, and is one of long standing. After he had finished taking the testimony Judge DuRelle stated that at least a part of the claim if not all of it, would surely be allowed. "The matter will be submitted to the United States Court of Claims," said he, "and it is more than probable that there will be an early disposition of it."

From the testimony adduced, and what could be gathered from the Government's representative, it would seem that the church will soon realize on the claim which has been pending for many years.—Enter.

BURLEY SITUATION

Figures Showing the Amount of Damage to the Crop This Year.

The Burley tobacco crop situation is peculiarly interesting just at present. The following facts may be noted. The 1905 crop was the largest crop of Burley ever raised, but there is less of it in sight than there has been for many years past at this time of the year. The crop planted in 1906 was 85 per cent of that of 1905. This percentage of acreage was reported by both the National and State Department of Agriculture. The crop after planting was subject to unusual damage by reasons of successive rains and high water covering the bottom lands. The first cutting was greatly damaged by house-burn. Almost the entire crop lost as many as four leaves on the bottom due to excessive rains. During the latter part of the cutting season a large portion of the crop was damaged and much of it destroyed by excessive rain and freezing.

The damage from the various causes have been carefully estimated by the American Society of Equity which especially prepared through its members to do much work and the loss was put at 25 per cent, which from 85 per cent. crop leaves the 1905 crop 64 per cent of the 1905 crop. If 18 per cent. of this is converted into fertilizer it will leave the present crop only 54 per cent. of the former.

Chesley and George Lawson, age 17, twins sons of Mr. R. W. Lawson, of Penick, met with a painful accident. About two and one half miles from Lebanon, on the Danville pike, the horse took fright at a pile of logs, which had been stacked by the road side, wheeled suddenly around and turned their buggy over. The boys were thrown violently, receiving severe bruises about the shoulders and head. The horses turned out the Lizard Point county road and ran to Pope's creek, a distance of more than two miles before it was stopped. The buggy which was a new one, was torn to pieces and the horses recovered many cuts and other wounds about the legs. The horse was a very valuable one and Mr. Lawson's loss is considerable, not to say anything about the great risk his sons underwent.

The Farmer's Wife.

Two opposing views of the status of a farmer's wife come out of the middle west. A vague statement in some "woman's column," by a sentimental writer "that is a fond dream of mine to become a farmer's wife and meander down life's pathway," drew this comment from a country editor. "Oh yes, that is a nice thing, but when your husband wanders off and leaves you without woe and you have to meander up and do it the lane poller's spelter of the fence to cook the dinner; and you meander around in the wet clay in search of the cows until your shoes are the color of the setting sun, and each socking adorns a pint of water; and when you meander out across twenty acres of plowed ground to drive the cows out of the buckwheat and tear or trice on a wire fence, an when you meander back to the house and find that the goat had butted your child until it resembles a pumpkin, and find the old hen and sixteen chickens in the parlor, the cat in the cupboard and the dog in the mill, you will realize, dear girl, that this meander business is not what it is cracked up to be." The other view.—The optimist's one—can be set forth as follows. A cheering person can picture farm life as idyllic—that the farmer, on rising in the morning, does not disturb his wife, and says good morning into the bodacious phonograph. He may add a hint as to what he would like to have for breakfast when he returns from the automobile ride about the farm. At eight o'clock the maid calls the farmer's wife, and at half past nine she has a telephone call from her husband, over on the north-west quarter, saying that he will join her in five minutes. At breakfast the morning papers are read, having come by rural delivery a few minutes before, and the wife announces the program for the day. It may be French, music, physical culture or clubs. A package of the latest novels, a ride across the country on a blood mare, skating in winter, golfing in summer, a lecture on art in the village hall—all these things are set forth as possibilities for the poltrolic farmer's wife in this state. And in the evening the pinola puts Bethoven or at the lady's finger tips. The children are put to bed, the roomers dismissed and a telephone conference with the neighbors over the day's gossip is begun. The farmer reads his favorite poet and the night glides off.—Meek County Messenger.

INCLOSED HARBORS.

THE BOTTLE SHAPED TYPE IS COMMON THE WORLD OVER.

It often happens that Nature herself provides the cork also, in the shape of Islands. That Almost Block up the Entrances.

If we take a trip around the world over the maps of a good atlas we find that the geographical distribution of the bottle-shaped type of harbor the world over. The coasts of Cuba show a succession of such inclosed bays, Havana harbor being typical. It often happens that nature herself provides the cork also, in the shape of islands that almost block up the entrance, or at least block the view from the outside. Such a cork is Corcovado in the bay of Rio de Janeiro, and the cork is the Golden Gate at San Francisco, and Smith Key occupies a similar position at Santiago.

The Annapolis basin in Nova Scotia is very typical among these geographical features. A fairly good map of that beautiful country will show a narrow gap on the bay of Fundy side of the peninsula. This gap, known as Digby strait, breaks through a long ridge that the people call North mountain. Through this break, rush the tidal waves of Fundy and fill up an inland basin of salt water twenty miles long and several in width.

The entrance, from the outside, is a jaggedly invisible to the landman's eye. To a passenger crossing the bay of Fundy from St. John it seems as if the captain were steering his trim side wheeler head on into a blue mountain wall, but in a few minutes the mountain opens, and through the hole, the interior hills of Nova Scotia loom the distance. One can imagine the tremendous tide race through the Digby strait when we know that the ordinary tidal rise in this region is anywhere from ten to twenty feet. It is so great, in fact, that the wharves at Digby are two storied affairs, and people go aboard steamers from the upper or lower wharf, according to the height of the tides.

New York harbor is in most respects a geographical curiosity. It is a narrow inlet of one, added to the principal opening, the Narrows, a sort of sea entrance is provided by the East river, leading out into the sound. The coast of Australia presents several examples of the geographical fact, the finest being the harbor of Melbourne. An ordinary map shows this strait apparently open to a first rate harbor of best type. In fact, however, the bottle is really there—fully thirty-five miles across in either direction. Into this bay, called Port Phillip, flows the Yarra river, and, adding enough Melbourne with its half million people, bites it self away nine miles up this strait. Below the city the river has two sand bars, which prevent the passage of large vessels. The heavy ocean traffic therefore has to terminate in the harbor, whence the journey is continued to town by rail. The explanation for this awkward situation comes to be that in the early days of Melbourne the one idea of the settlers was to build at the river's mouth a great metropolitan harbor, behind the sands of the useless Yarra.

Now the Yarra is a splendidly inclosed harbor—the best in all South America; better far than the shallow "Lake" Maracaibo, which looks so inviting on the maps. Here again at Rio we have a great salt water inlet, some seven miles across, communicating with the ocean by a narrow strait.

In nearly every case these natural bottles are what the geographer calls "inclosed rivers." In other words, the coastal lands in the vicinity have subsided, allowing the sea to flow in and convert what was a landlocked valley into a partly landlocked marine area. Divers have gone to the bottom of the river and have found there the ancient bed of the Hudson river, as the stream flowed before the mountain part of the valley subsided into the sea. The old bed reaches through the Narrows and well into the door of the Atlantic. Of course, as the sea water entered the shaling valley, any hills rising thereabout would become islands in the new order of things. And there we find them to this day in almost any of these inclosed bays.—St. Nicholas

WHY TRAINED MEN ARE REQUIRED IN HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION.

Large Sums of Money Wasted by Incompetent Overseers—Features of New School Where Men are Trained for Road Supervisors.

It is somewhat astonishing to learn that a sum aggregating nearly $3,000,000 is expended annually by the rural districts of the state of Wisconsin for roads and bridges, says Harvard's Dairyman. It is hard to believe that in the last few years about $2,000,000 have been spent for these purposes outside of the cities and villages, especially in the rural districts. The roads and bridges in taken into account. They have now practically the same appearance that they used to have before the war. The roads are in a state of decay and the bridges are in a state of ruin. The money has literally been dropped into the holes in our roads.

But more astonishing than the great sums of money is the fact that they have been spent on engineering in almost every instance with the advice of a trained man. We would naturally think that a man who would build a $2,000,000 road would be a trained man. In fact, the courts would probably be asked to appoint a guardian by his wife if he selected men who had no experience and no technical training for the job. Yet we go on in our most vital of our (Wisconsin) road millions every year on just that principle, without any definite plan of any sort from trained men. We are now road overseers—many of them in Jefferson county—who know next to nothing of the work they are supposed to do, and their work shows it.

When we start to build a house we get a man to put up the foundation, a carpenter to put up the woodwork, a plumber to put in the piping, a painter to finish the job and perhaps even a lawyer to draw up the deed. We get men who know their business. We don't let the job to Neighbor Jones and his wife, or to a neighbor who has no experience and no technical training for the job. We get men who know their business. We don't let the job to Neighbor Jones and his wife, or to a neighbor who has no experience and no technical training for the job.

Few Things Worth Knowing.

Spinning wheels were invented in the year 1528.

Barometers were first used by Torricelli in the year 1670.

The Paris millinery hat, from which all modern millinery has come, was concocted in the year 1604.

The first balloon was made by Etienne Montgolfier, of France, in the year 1783.

The earliest record of the existence of the mariner's compass was found in 1190. But the Chinese appear to have had knowledge of it many centuries before.

Recalled the Name.

The stagecoach that carries the mail between Knott's Hill and Redfish station, in Maine, drew up along the road, and the driver addressed a little old man working in a field, says Every Body's Magazine. "You know who Mrs. Mary B. Brown is and where she lives?"

The old man considered. "Brown, Mary B. Brown?" he repeated. "You don't mean Mrs. Polly Brown, do you?"

"No, Mrs. Mary B. Brown; we've got a letter for her."

"I'll give you the middle letter is B, do you? I know a whole lot of letters that live on the other side of the road, but there ain't any Mary B. Brown there. You don't mean Mrs. Mary B. Brown, do you?"

"No, it's Mrs. Mary B. Brown. We'll send her somehow. Thanks."

The stage driver started his horse, and before the corner was reached a faint "Hello" came from the passengers to turn around. The old man, too, in the various problems they have met in their work.

The commission owns a number of land levels, and instruments, such as are necessary in laying out roads.

Had a Close Call.

"A dangerous surgical operation, involving the removal of a malignant ulcer, as large as my hand, from my daughter's hip, was prevented by the application of Bucklen's Arnica Salve," says A. C. Stickle, of Millfield, W. Va. "Persistent use of the Salve completely cured it." Cuts, Burns and Injuries. 25c at C. J. Haydon, druggist.

STRAVED.—From my place about four miles from Springfield on last Wednesday night, a yellow brown muley cow, left front tit cut with a wire. Any information leading to her recovery will be rewarded by Scott Johnson, R. F. D. no. 4.

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church at Lebanon closed last Thursday night.
Rev. J. H. Early, of Ellettsville, town and G. W. Lyon, of Springfield, assisted Rev. C. H. Pratt, ex-pastor. The congregations were large and the results satisfactory.
Great good was done.

The heavy rain and flood of Sunday night did thousands of dollars worth of damage to the farmers living along the Crooked Creek. The water was higher than it was ever known and swept through corn fields seatering hundreds of shocks of fodder and corn. Bridges were swept away and great damage was done to the turnpikes in many places.

Mr. John Payne lost a valuable horse in a peculiar incident Monday night during the hard storm. The horse hitched to a surrey was being driven down the Bardonia road and a small bridge in front of Mr.
R. W. Clement's home got off the road which was flooded with water at that point. The animal fell on the upper side of the bridge and was drawn under before help could reach it and was drowned. The occupants of the buggy had a narrow escape.

Schragger Bros. who have been operating a cheap clothing and dry goods store in the Opera House building here for about eight months closed up shop this week and their goods were shipped to Cincinnati. It is the same old story. Springfield is a hard town for "cheap stores" and although quite a number have started here have been forced for any length of time.
Schragger Bros. are nice clever men and will perhaps be more successful elsewhere. They are native Russians and have only been in this country a short time.

The careless handling of a loaded shotgun by Sam Colvin, the young son of Mr. Steve Colvin, came near resulting in a serious accident last Tuesday evening. Young Colvin had the gun in Campbell's grocery store and with it pointed out the door was endeavoring to breach it.
In some manner the gun was discharged and the load drove straight across the street to Hayden & Barbers store. Mrs.
T. S. Maves and Mrs. Mollie Maves were standing in the doorway at the time the shot struck very near them. Mrs. T.
Maves being struck by one shot that had glanced from the door facing. Fortunately however the shot had spent its force and Mrs. Maves was not hurt.
Numerous shots were buried in the door and window framing and some even embedded themselves in the plate glass.

Seats are rapidly being sold for the entertainment to be given under the auspices of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at the opera house here on Thursday evening, Nov. 29th. Miss Bettie Lewis, the well known and versatile elocution-ist, of Louisville, has been announced to appear in Shakespearean readings, monologues, delicious recitations, dramatic sketches, sketches in negro dialect and child impersonations.
Miss Lewis is highly commended by the press. The Louisville Dispatch says: "The entertainment last evening under the management of Miss Bettie Lewis was an artistic success.
Miss Lewis was able to display her talent in a scene from "Romeo and Juliet," which was excellently rendered and most warmly applauded." In addition to Miss Lewis' performance there will be selections by home talent consisting of quartets, duets and vocal solos.

Neuma, the great Russian Wizard, who is said to be 117 do all sorts of wonderful things will appear at the opera house this (Thursday) evening for one performance only. Neuma will allow himself to be handcuffed and put in jail in the afternoon and will release himself in some unaccountable manner.
He will locate hidden articles and do other wonderful stunts on the streets by way of advertising his performance in the evening. With Neuma's company will also appear Madame Blone Yaki, the Fair Mahatma, in occult somnolency. The preformance is highly entertaining.

Irvine-Wharton.

A wedding of more than ordinary interest, on account of the popularity of the contracting parties, Miss Bettie Irvine and George L. Wharton, will be solemnized this (Thursday) afternoon at one o'clock in the Presbyterian church, Rev. W. Y.
Davis, of Louisville will perform the ceremony. Messrs. G. C.
Wharton, and Will C. Wharton brothers of the groom, H. M.
Grundy and Gab-Irvine, brother of the bride, will act as best men. Miss Irvine is a niece of Mrs.
A. C. McElroy and is one of the most popular girls who ever graced Springfield society. Mr.
Wharton is a general favorite and one of the town's best business men. After a week's trip to parts unknown they will be at home to their friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C.
Wharton.

Frank Brooks Dead.

Frank Brooks, one of the most highly respected and cord men of the community, died at his home on High street last Thursday, of Bright's disease.
"Uncle Frank" as he was fami-larly known was one of the old land marks about Springfield, having lived here all of his life.
He was born as a slave by the late Mr. Thos. Graycraft and since the war he had lived an industrious and useful life and had provided a comfortable home for himself and wife. He had a high sense of honor and his word was as good as his bond. Frank Brooks had been sexton of the Presbyterian church at this place for the past fifteen years and was a member of that church.
The funeral took place at the church on Friday and was largely attended by both white and colored people. Rev. Dr. McF.
Foster, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Lebanon, preached the funeral sermon.

Death of Maggie Thompson

The death angel visited the home of Mrs. Dee Thompson and claimed her daughter, Maggie. She had been suffering from typhoid fever for several weeks. Every care and attention was given her by her devoted mother, brothers, sisters and Aunt Mary, yet God had decided to call her home. She was a faithful member of the Presbyterian church. She was born November 21, 1857. Although her life was short her on this earth but full of good deeds. She was of a cheerful disposition, kind hearted and good to everyone. For the past ten months she had been engaged as telephone operator in the Mackville exchange office where she served the people so faithfully, was ever ready and willing to help them in any way she could. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. T.
Overstreet for which the remains were laid to rest in the Pleasant Grove cemetery.

I pen these words to the beloved ones. We trust that these few words will draw us nearer to our Master and prepare us to meet our loved ones on that bright and glorious shore. A FRIEND.
